Debuting at the Stitches in Time quilt show in Cleveland, TN, the Flutter and Glow collection received a warm, enthusiastic response from makers and quilters alike. During a presentation titled "From Her Hands to Mine: One Daughter's Journey into Fabric Design," nearly 50 attendees gathered to hear the personal story of how a mother's quilting legacy inspired the transition into textile design.

Quilters were immediately drawn to the vibrant palette and versatile patterns, showing particular excitement for pairing the hero prints and coordinates to craft complementary "daytime" and "nighttime" quilts.

Flutter and Glow Collection

At its heart, every pattern I design is crafted with the youngest eyes and hearts in mind. Children experience the world through vivid sensory details, and the fabrics we wrap around them become part of their visual memory—a source of comfort, wonder, and joy. Whether these prints end up stitched into a cherished quilt, a cozy naptime blanket, or a favorite everyday outfit, I design each motif with intentional care. For me, pattern design is more than creating beautiful textiles; it is an opportunity to nurture young minds, foster imagination, and provide little ones with a warm, playful backdrop as they explore the world around them.
